

Blending colors

Tuesday, 20 November 2007

I often get asked about how I am going about to blend colors.

First of all there are different techniques I use depending on what style and look I would like to have to my paintings. I am planning on adding to this section with the different techniques I used for specific paintings.

For now I just created some images to show you the general process I go through while blending. Nothing too fancy but since some of you wondered Something very important to keep in mind is that not all edges and colors are blended smoothly. Again, studying your surrounding or photographs will help you develop a feeling for hard and soft transitions and where to use them.